

Dominican Film SHOWCASE

As part of its popular Dominican Film Showcase program organized to promote, share, and celebrate the stories, characters and history of the Dominican Republic with an international audience, GFDD and FUNGLODE in partnership with Café Latino and Drexel Spanish Club present a film screening, Ana's Struggle.

Join us in the celebration of the Dominican cinema; learn about its achievements and hear from one of a new generation of hard-hitting filmmakers, Bladimir Abud.

Date Thursday, October 10, 2013

Time: 5:30-9:00pm

Place: 113 Stratton (Campbell Auditorium)
32nd and Chestnut Streets (across from main building)
Drexel University
Philadelphia, PA 19104

Free Admission and Refreshments

The Dominican Film Showcase was created with the idea of enriching the Dominican Republic's film culture and bringing its unique brand of cinema to a wider audience. The program utilizes the seventh art as a platform for discussion, enhancing social awareness and promoting constructive change while highlighting issues of historic and cultural importance to the Dominican community. It also seeks to cultivate appreciation of all aspects of the Dominican Republic's growing cinematographic talent.
